THE PEDAGOGUES.

Second Day's Session of the Teachers' Institute.

The Institute was called to order by Superintendent Blatterman. Singing, led by Professor J. H. Rowland, Miss Hud-son organist, after which a Scripture les-son was read by Superintendent Blatter-man and prayer offered by Professor Wil-lls.

Arithmetic was the first general topic for consideration, and Mr. Asbury took the first subdivision, viz. "How to Teach Notation and Numeration." He would have the pupil learn to write all the numbers to 100, then by an inductive process he would teach the higher orders. Reading numbers and writing the same should go together. No one should dare to teach notation and numeration without doing so objectively.

"How Far Shall the Oral Course Extent?" was discussed by Professor Willis.

"How Far Shall the Oral Course Ex-tend?" was discussed by Professor Willis. He would have the work through frac-tions and reduction of compound numbers taught orally. Do not confine yourself to the text-book. Make up your own prob-lems suitable to the pupils under instruclems suitable to the pupils under instruc-tion.
"How to Teach Beginners Addition and

"How to Teach Beginners Addition and Subtraction" was the next subject. Mr. Cook gave his method, followed by Miss Doney, who gave a very interesting talk on the objective method. Remarks by Misses Goddard and Young, and Messrs. Thomas, Swift and Rowland. "How to Teach Beginners Multiplica-tion and Division" was taken up by Mr. Swift, who would use the objective method. He took issue with authors of arithmetics, and oeclared that there is no such thing as an abstract number. This brought on a vigorous discussion, particle sardinate and a batract number. This brought on a vigorous discussion, participhomas and Rowland. "How to Teach Fractions." Professor Willis, in a short speach, gave his method of presenting this subject to beginners, giving some excellent advice to teachers. Mr. Kane, Principal of the Lewiburg School, next discussed the subject of fractions. He would use an apple or other object capable of being divided, and by means of this teach halves, fourths, eighths, &c. Remarks by Mr. Thomas and Professor Willis. "Compound Numbers" received the attention of Professor Willis. Method in work was urged upon the teachers. Let overy step be given clearly and methodically.

Miss Evans told how she made arithmetic interesting to her pupils. The way to make the work interesting to pupils is first to be interested yourself. Always know just what you are going to do, and see that the closest attention is given by the class. the class.

Mr. W. R. Chandler gave his attention "Tables, and How to Deal With Them Mr. W. K. Chandier gave his attention to "Tables, and How to Deal With Them."
He would use the tables—put them on the blackboard and let the eye aid the mind in the acquisition of arithmetical work in the various processes by giving them problems in purchases of articles of consumption, with which all are familiar. The teacher should be ingenious, devising new plans for presenting the various subjects to pupils, the aim being to make the work simple, clear and complete. Professor Willis gave one of his most interesting tables on "Reading." The oral word must be presented the virtue word, serving as an interpreter. I deas before words is the natural way, but many teachers overlook that primary principle and teach words, words, nothing but words.

AFERINOOS ASSEON.
The first subject was "The Alphabet Method of Tocabing Reading." Mr. Hill, to whom the subject was assigned, being absent, Frofessor Willia discussed the subject, condemning the method of learning the alphabet in the order in which they occur, before learning to read, but at some time it should be learned.

Judging from the close attention given the speaker it is the opinion of the writer that more practical good would result from the discussion if the Instructor should first give the Institute the benefit of his experience by bringing out the most improved methods of teaching the various subjects, thereby equipping the inexperience deacher with materials gleaned from the fields of successful ex-perience.

"Oral Leasons" was presented by Mr. W. R. Chandler in a short talk, giving his method of teaching language orally. Professor Willis followed with a model leason on teaching language.

farm values more than doubled. But it is in wages and savings that the greatest advance is shown—and where do we ever see the fruits of Protection that we not see increased wages and savings

In the last generation, says the American Economist, the wages of our people have increased more than sevenfold and our savings more than twelve-fold and during the same time we have paid off nearly $2,000,000,000 of National debt. In 1800 our records amounted to In 1860 our exports amounted to debt. In 1890 our exports amounted to $333,576,067, in 1892 to $1,030,278,148; and yet, enormous as is our foreign trade, it is small indeed compared with our domestic trade, which, last year, was estimated to be about $40,000,000,000.

Now we are asked to give up this rand home market in the hopes of in-ressing our foreign sales by a few mil-ons. We are asked to draw out these virings and buy the products of other mids. We are asked to sacrifice these anufactures and farms to impoverish an acceptance of the control of t ives as we did just before the era

FRENCH TROOPS.

Stationed at Timbuctoo, Literally Cut to Pieces

After Three Days' Fighting With the

Pants, Ang. 20— Most startling news has resched here from Senepal, West Africa. According to a report received at St. Louis, the French garrison at at Timbuetoo, after three days desperate fighting with the Tauregs and other hostile tribes which have been investing that city for a long time past, made a sortie. The beleaguring forces were upon the sortie party, fairly annihilation it.

overwhelming in numbers and fell upon the sortic party, fairly annihilating it.

This news has caused consternation in many circles, as it is the second serious disaster the Prench have met with important Soudanese town was occupied by them early in the present year. A French column, commanded by Col. Bannier, arrived at Timbuctoo on January 10 and two days later a detachment of troops with Col. Bannier at its head, account the entire staff, and the second of the second of men who had escaped the massacre as Dougol.

The Taurega pursued the retreating soldiers and prictically invested Timbasto to defined, pending the arrival of reinforcements. It was stated that at Dougoi the French lost nine officers, two European sergeants, stated that at Dougoi the French lost nine officers, two European sergeants, as tated that at Dougoi the sharpshooters.

For the defense of Timbuctoo Capt.

For the defense of the Forehold of the French dottill on the Niger river, the Captain made the best disposal possible of his small force, and with the coup-holding out until the Joffre column arrived. This column was composed of a company and a half of sharpshooters, a squadron of spahis (splendid African cavalry.) thirty auxiliary spahis and two guns; it also included the horses, mules. On January 20 a company of sharpshooters marched on Nianomand the with serious opposition during its advance. On January 20 a company of sharpshooters marched on Nianomand Hellometres of a swamp which surrounded the village, in front of which 400 warriors were drawn up in battle array. The warriors charged the French force. The latter in less than fifteen minutes killed over 100 of the African warriow. Hellow was captured without any loss on the part of the Joffre column. Several such engagements took place, cannon and cavalry being repeatedly called into use, but on February 2 the advance fottila arrived at 600 and not the action of the African warriows.

on February 12 the latter reached Tim-buctoo.
It is in all probability part of the force of Capt. Phillippe and Col. Joffre which has, according to the advices from Senegal, been cut to pieces by the Arabs. It is believed that the garrison of Timbuctoo has, since the Joffre col-umn arrived there, been again re-in-forced.
